Good teaching: every day; every student; every class; every year ~ is THE expectation. There are many activities and routines that can be established in the classroom tomorrow, that will help focus students on teaching and learning. Classroom management skills must be developed. They provide a structure that makes teaching more productive for all. This workshop will highlight classroom management strategies that provide participants with a variety of ways to guide 21st century students and keep them engaged. These strategies can be implemented in the teacher’s classroom immediately.

Participants will:

- Learn how to design a classroom to maximize skill development and minimize disruptions to teaching and learning.

- Develop strategies for creating a classroom of independent learners.

- Set goals for themselves and their students and learn strategies to review and revise those goals throughout the school year.

- Learn a variety of “Do Now’s,” Exit Tickets, and Checking for Understanding strategies.
