Want to be a better leader? Want to be a more effective school administrator? Looking for something fresh and different? New to administration? Experienced yet need a reboot? Meet Andrew Marotta!

In this workshop, Andrew will invigorate you, challenge you, and inspire you. He will share stories, tips, hacks, and experiences from his book: The Principal: Surviving & Thriving. This high energy, enthusiastic presentation will be interactive, reflective, and purposeful, to help you in your role as a school administrator. No one promised you that the job would be easy; but Andrew will help you make it easy, fun and rewarding. In this transformative session, Andrew will focus on: the power of storytelling, having more energy and enthusiasm, providing meaningful feedback, and how to better take care of your own well being while doing your best to serve others.

Andrew Marotta is an energetic and enthusiastic leader who has put his positive imprint on his beloved Port Jervis HS, in Port Jervis, NY. With the release of his first book, The Principal: Surviving & Thriving, Andrew is expanding his impact on the education leadership community. In his personal life Andrew is a loving husband to his wife, Jennifer, and supportive father to their three young children. In his professional life Andrew has been at Port Jervis HS for 15 years, serving as Assistant Principal for seven years and Principal. He is also an adjunct professor at LIU-Hudson.
